

INTERSTATE ROUTE HOURLY LANE CLOSURE RESTRICTIONS

The Department reserves the right to restrict the installation of lane closures, road closures, shoulder closures, ramp closures, pacing and mobile operations, or any other operations that will impact the efficient flow of traffic or hinder normal traffic operations on state highway system routes during peak travel hours and/or days, holidays, holiday weekends, extended holiday periods, weekends, special events, or any time traffic volumes are high. Lane closures on high volume highways during peak traffic periods or at any time traffic volumes exceed the numerical values determined to be acceptable by the Department are PROHIBITED. Lane closures on routes with high volume commuter traffic during peak traffic periods are PROHIBITED. In accordance with Standard Specification 601.1.3 Restrictions, the Department prohibits the installation of traffic control operations during the hours listed in this document and at other times when determined appropriate. In addition to the hourly restrictions listed below, for interstate restrictions during holidays, refer to Standard Specification 601.1.3.2 Holiday Restrictions.

The Department will consider waivers of these restrictions with a site-specific review when requested in accordance with Engineering Directive 32 and Standard Specification 601.1.3.3 Waiver of Restrictions. Waivers require approval from the Deputy Secretary for Engineering or designee(s) with concurrence from the Director of Traffic Engineering. Requests should be submitted through the Project Manager or District Engineering Administrator or their designee. Studies or data used to support the request may be included however the Director of Traffic Engineering reserves the right to use different data and methods or to require additional data be obtained.

These restrictions should typically cover the hours that a queue would be expected to occur but traffic volumes may fluctuate greatly and unexpectedly due to a number of factors so the appropriate queue warning equipment should be available if needed. Waivers of these restrictions will require implementation of WZ ITS for queue warning and camera coverage where the data indicates that queues can be expected. Other mitigations such as detour route improvements, use of law enforcement, signal retiming, etc, may be required as well depending on the expected impacts and their durations.

The methodology used in developing the restrictions in this list intends to provide accurate restrictions without being overly conservative. Both July and September data (with holidays omitted) are used to determine appropriate restrictions. July is typically representative of rural and coastal areas while September is typically representative of urban and upstate areas, however in most cases the differences are minor. Where September data doesn't affect the restrictions the segment is only noted as using July data. Where noted, the hourly data has been adjusted by a factor as appropriate in order to assume the volume of a particular segment when its AADT differs from that of the count station segment by more than 7%. This is reflective of the practice used in evaluating waiver requests. Where there are segments with significant AADT variations between interchanges such as in urban areas the restrictions will be more conservative at the lower volume segments, however in most cases there is insufficient room to install a lane closure within the short lower volume segment. In some cases due to tight interchange spacing the termini of a particular segment may be extended and include a lower volume segment and interchange.
